Abstract

Today's era of global competition tends to be a lot of people perceived and interpreted only in shades of sheer political and economic problem than the social calculations. In line with the trend of globalization, where there is a rapid movement of the social problems that require social workers across borders. Social work training in Indonesia in general needs to respond to the social problems caused by globalization. Social work educators should be responsible for determining the social work because they have a responsibility to provide a clear conceptualization of social work where social workers can solve social problems that developed in the community. These problems can be dealt with effectively, when using a holistic and comprehensive approach.
